TERRIBLE TRAGEDY AT ZION

Aged Woman Murdered in Cold Blood by Four Parhamite Fanatics

WORST CRIME IN HISTORY

Son and Daughter of Victim With Three Others Held to Grand Jury on Charge of Manslaughter

Seeking to drive the devil out of her old, broken-down body, five members of the Parhamite faction of Zion City Wednesday of last week literally murdered in cold blood, Mrs. Letitia Greenhalgh, 67 years of age by breaking almost every joint in his body, including her legs, arms and even her neck.

The perpetrators of this most astounding tragedy that has ever come out of Zion City include the son and daughter of the woman.

The five persons charged with the murder of this aged Parhamite believer and now under arrest, are:

Jennie Greenhalgh, aged 30, a daughter of the victim.

Walter Greenhalgh, aged 34, a son of the victim.

Mrs. Smith, a neighbor.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell, also neighbors.

The affair is the most sensational of the kind the county has ever had and the fact that when Deputy Coroner Conrad heard of the circumstances he at once, at midnight Thursday night, started an inquest, shows the importance of the tragedy which has shaken Zion as nothing else has ever shaken it before.

The five persons above named are held on a charge of manslaughter and it is more than likely, from indications and opinions of officers that they will be held to the grand jury and that they will ultimately be tried in circuit court for murder of the aged woman.

The facts of the case in substance are these:

Mrs. Greenhalgh, aged 67, had been an invalid for the past twenty years, having paralysis and rheumatism. Her body was decrepit and she was unable to help herself to any extent whatever.

She and her two children became members of the faction of religious fanatics in Zion City who joined C. F. Parham, the man who believed in and taught the Gift of Tongues and also that devils are driven out of people through prayer. They were ardent followers and among their neighbors were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mitchell, also ardent followers of the cult.

Seeing the aged woman perfectly helpless, the Mitchells, leaders of the cult in Zion, decided that they must cast the devils out of the old woman and that she would then be all right as soon as the devils were cast out of her.

The son and daughter agreed that such a course was necessary if they wished their parent to get well so they agreed to hold a prayer service and operating service to "cast the devil out of her."

The husband of the woman has not been a believer in the Parhamite faith hence when he heard of the plans to pray and operate he did not wish to remain there and the others did not wish to have him there. Accordingly they asked him to leave the room and he was in another part of the house when they started their terrible work which ended in the death of the mother and wife.

After praying over the woman, the five persons, including the son and daughter, started pulling her legs and twisting her joints in such a manner that when they had finished their seance, the woman was dead.

Her leg joints were broken at the hips.

The joints at the ankles were broken.

Her arm joints were broken at the elbows.

Her neck was twisted and broken.

Thus, according to Greenhalgh's own words, while his mother died Wednesday noon, her death was not admitted until 2:30 Thursday morning, and was not revealed until hours later.

Then the sister told a personal friend who resides across the street Deacon Heflin, of the whole tragedy, a Mrs. Bateman, another neighbor, washed and dressed the mangled body and an undertaker, Hopkins by name, embalmed it.

For this he, too, faces arrest.

"I told him of the case," says Greenhalgh, "and he did not pay any attention to it."

This is a criminal offense, it is said, as the death was by violence.

The affair was further complicated when

CHECK RAISER ARRESTED

Man Raised Checks to Quadruple their Amounts and Cashed Them

Alleged past master in the fine art of raising checks, William Gournaitis was on Monday afternoon trailed down and arrested in a Piccadilly court boarding house in Waukegan by Officer William Bellinski after a baffling search.

The search ended when Gournaitis was found swaddled in several sheets and quilts in a small pantry in the boarding house.

Last Wednesday Gournaitis drew a check for $11.14 and one for $2.70 for his work as a wire drawer at the mills. He proceeded to raise them it is said to $22.14 and $20.70, and one he cashed at the place of John Sadowsky and one at the grocery of John Petkus.

W. Gournaitis, although a very smart appearing foreigner, would never be taken as a forger as he does not look as though he had the nerve to try and cash a forged check.

When Officer Bellinski found Gournaitis he was wrapped up in an overcoat at his boarding house on Market street and confessed to know nothing whatever about the checks.

Although unable to speak a word of English and but just over from the old country, W. Gournaitis forged two wire mill checks and successfully passed them.

INVENTS DEVICE WHICH WILL MAKE HIM FAMOUS

After two years of planning and hard work, Charles T. Buck, of Waukegan, has recently patented a device that will be the means of making his fortune if it gets into practical use as Mr. Buck feels sure that it will do.

The device is what is known as a boltless rail joint. It was devised with the intention of doing away with the fish plates and bolts that are necessary in the fastening together of the ends of the adjacent rails, which causes the pounding that is so disagreeable to passengers and is also a severe tax on the rolling stock.

The rail is very simple in its construction and it is to this very simplicity and utility that Mr. Buck banks his hopes of success. The two ends of the rails are hollowed out in the course of manufacture, and in laying the rails a connecting bar is slipped in the ends of which are so arranged that they slip over little obstructions, and once over it they are held in place by a great force. All that is necessary to do to slip in this bar is to have the two ends of the rails raised. When lowered the connection is made. This does away with all the time that is necessary to bore the holes for the bolts and the placing of the fish plates.

An advantage of the rail for electric roads is that the connection makes a perfect electrical connection allowing the current to pass through the rails freely, whereas in the present system of rails it is necessary to have a copper connection. Corrosion which is a great factor in retarding the progress of the current in the rail will have no effect upon the rail.

Mr. Buck has spent much time on the invention and feels that if he can interest the railroad companies in its use that his fortune is made. He has also plans for a machine for its manufacture.

BORDEN MILK PRICES FOR THE NEXT SIX MONTHS

The McHenry Borden milk factory contracted for its winter's supply of milk last Thursday morning, the average price to be paid during the coming six months being $1.61½, 21½ cents higher than was paid last year.

The milk price question was more seriously discussed by the local dairymen this year than ever before, because of the backwardness of the season and the high price of all fodder and grain. However, after the books had been opened and the prices announced, the dairymen were not long in signing up. The prices for the coming six months compared with those for the same time last year are as follows:

	1906	1907
$1.30.....October.....	$1.55
1.40.....November.....	1.65
1.50.....December.....	1.65
1.60.....January.....	1.65
1.40.....February.....	1.65
1.30.....March.....	1.55

$1.40.....Average.....$1.61½

At Dundee and Elgin the farmers were some time in signing the contracts, but before the day had closed nearly all the old patrons had signed. At Huntley the three local milk companies, Borden, Cornell Bros. and Victor May, offered the same prices for milk, to the general surprise of the dairymen, who expected to see competition prices prevail.

ASSAULTED YOUNG GIRL

Was Detained all Night in a Waukegan Livery Barn by Two Men

WAS A HALF WITTED GIRL

The Men Were Arrested, and Signed Written Confessions of Their Horrifying and Revolting Deed

Inhuman monsters unworthy of the name of men Monday night lured Margaretta Chandler, whose name by adoption is Stella M. Stripe, into a south Genesee street livery stable, at Waukegan, and after assaulting her kept her there all night.

The men arrested have signed written confessions of one of the most horrifying deeds in the history of Waukegan are: James Doherty, hostler, 22, Chicago; Jas. Meloy, hostler, 21, Chicago.

The Chandler girl, who is a child by adoption of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stripe of Hickory street, is half witted.

Monday night, it is alleged, she was met on the street by Meloy, who by promises of candy and various things, induced her to go with him to the office of the livery stable at 127 South Genesee street.

In the back room of this office, it is alleged, atrocities were committed which left the girl, who is under 16, in a critical condition of collapse.

To add to the horror of the deeds of the two arrested, who deserve and should get the extreme penalty of the law, the girl was detained with them by force all night.

Tuesday morning she was found wandering the streets by the police who had previously been notified by a neighbor of the Stripes that she had not been home all night.

Assistant Chief Hicks and Officer Sells discovered the girl at the corner of Genesee and Washington streets in a dazed condition. She was removed to the police station and there, upon being questioned, was able to gasp out incoherent parts of her terrible story. At first she refused to give the names of those involved and told a tale of staying at a hotel, but afterwards she gave up the whole ghastly story and the police with commendable speed made the arrests.

Dr. Brown made an examination which proved the girl in a serious condition and soon after Justice Weiss, Assistant State's Attorney Miller and others were called into conference.

When arrested, Doherty and Meloy readily confessed to their night of horror and signed written statements that will be used against them when their trial comes up in the circuit court.

It is the belief of the police that she was drugged after she was taken into the back room.

Intense horror and indignation are felt against the prisoners, and extra guards will be posted around the jail.

BAD LANGUAGE IN ENGLAND.

Upper Classes Adopting Vulgar Words and Forgetting Grammar.

Apologies of my recent remarks on the adoption of cockney expressions and the cockney accent by stallholders at a fashionable bazaar, says a writer in the Lady's Pictorial, I am not surprised to find that those who are interested in the English language are taking fright at the terrible havoc that is being made with it by those who ought to know better. As spoken now by the masses, English is practically another language from that spoken, say, 25 years ago by working people. The school board education has given yet another accent and tone to the "young person," and it therefore depends upon the upper classes to speak pure English. But it is more than regrettable—it is, indeed, disastrous—to find them adopting the hideous twang and meaningless vulgarisms of expression of their inferiors, clipping "g's" and disregarding the good old rule that verbs must agree with their nominatives in number and person. It is sad to think of what our language may have become in a quarter of a century.

The Need for Companionship. There is a wise old German saying that "Only a god or a brute can dwell in solitude." Men and women need congenial companionship, both for the sake of health and happiness. There is such a thing as mental as well as physical hunger. Women on lonely farms and in small villages grow morbid and mildly insane, and people do not guess that the cause is want of companionship.—Woman's Life.

KILLED BY THE TRAIN

James Jordan, of Camp Lake, Meets Death Under Wheels of the Fast Mail

WALKED ON WRONG TRACK

Remains Found on the Track Just South of Silver Lake Terribly Mangled—An Old Resident of County

James Jordan, of Camp Lake, one of the best known farmers of Kenosha county, Wis., met an awful death just after midnight Tuesday morning when he was run down by a fast mail train on the Wisconsin Central road near the village of Silver Lake and instantly killed. The remains of the man were terribly mangled but they were picked up and taken to Silver Lake where an inquest was held by Justice H. Blum, and a verdict of accidental death was found.

Jordan had spent Monday evening with friends at Silver Lake and just before midnight he had started to walk to his home near Camp Lake station. He joked with the men at the Silver Lake station and started for home.

A short time later the fast mail train on the road running at the rate of sixty miles an hour came in sight, and the operator could see Jordan walking along the track. He thought he heard a cry and after the train had passed he walked down the track and found the badly mangled remains of Jordan. There are two tracks at this point and it is thought that Jordan made a mistake and believed that he was walking along the switch track while he was on the main line of the road.

People were hurriedly summoned and the remains were carried back to Silver Lake and after inquest they were taken to the Jordan home.

James Jordan had been a resident of Kenosha county for more than sixty-five years. He was a native of Ireland, but came to Southport when he was five years of age, and after living in the city for many years he purchased a farm near O'Neill's Corners in the town of Pleasant Prairie.

He lived on this farm until thirty years ago, when he moved to the farm near Camp Lake. His wife died a number of years ago. Five daughters survive. They are: Mrs. H. Lais, of Camp Lake; Mrs. G. Bowman, of Bassetts Station; Mrs. Harry Perry, of Ft. Worth, Texas, and Miss Stella Jordan who lived with her father at Camp Lake.

MRS. GEORGE KERR DIED AT HER HOME NEAR LAKE VILLA

On Monday afternoon at her home near Lake Villa occurred the death of Ella Anderson Kerr, wife of George Kerr at about 6:30 o'clock. Mrs. Kerr although she had been in failing health for some time past but was confined to her bed only about two weeks and her death which occurred on the sixteenth day of September was entirely unlooked for.

Mrs. Kerr was born in Lone Tree, Bureau county, Ill., March 21, 1853 and moved from that place to Virginia with her parents in the year of 1870. She was united in marriage to George S. Kerr on December 27, 1881, and they at once came to their home near Lake Villa and have resided there ever since. She was the only daughter of the late Adam Anderson who it will be remembered resided at this place some four years ago.

She leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and loving mother, her husband, three sons George, Harry and Irving, and one daughter, Edna, all of whom reside at home.

The funeral was held from the residence on Thursday afternoon at one o'clock with Rev. Safford of Millburn officiating. The interment was in the Millburn cemetery.

Why He Doesn't Drink Milk. My son, who is a little over two years of age, has always disliked to drink milk, says a writer in the New York World. I have repeatedly told him that to be a strong and healthy boy, he should always drink milk. While visiting a neighbor with me one day he saw a little boy who was a cripple and could not walk. "Mama," said he, "why can't the little baby walk?" I told him the reason was because the baby did not drink milk. Then I said to my little son: "Why don't you drink milk?" This was his reply: "Because I can walk." Since then I have had more trouble in persuading him to drink milk than ever before.

MRS. HENRY BILLETT DEAD

The End Came Sudden and Unexpected on Saturday Evening

Between the hour of half past six and seven o'clock on Saturday evening occurred the sudden death of Mrs. Henry Billett at her home in this village.

Her death was indeed a sudden shock to her family and friends for, although she had been in poor health for the past few years, she had seemed as well as usual during the past week. Saturday evening she sat at the table and ate her supper as usual and remained at the table for some time laughing and chatting with those about her, and at the time little did they think that so soon would the angel of death enter the home and leave the mother's place vacant.

Although the end came so sudden she seemed all at once to have a presentiment that her time had come. As she stood in the kitchen she suddenly remarked, "I believe I am going to have a hemorrhage," and scarcely had she said so when the blood began to flow from her mouth. Everything was done for her relief but the lungs rapidly filled and in less than ten minutes she had breathed her last.

From the first moment she seemed to realize that it was her last attack, and looking up at her son said, "Don't cry, Lloyd, but I am going away." Her husband, who had left the house only a few moments before, taking with him her order for the Sunday dinner, was hastily summoned and arrived at her side just as she breathed her last.

The beginning of her illness was about ten years ago when she suffered from a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia, since which time she was never strong and in a short time after, that dread disease consumption began to develop and slowly but steadily sapped her life away. For the past three years she has had numerous attacks of hemorrhage of the lungs and was a great sufferer, but through it all she showed a most sunny disposition, never complaining, always cheerful and making the best of her lot, and only during the past few weeks did she ever seem discouraged about her recovery.

She was a charter member of the Royal Neighbors and was one of their most ardent workers. For a number of years she held an office in the order and was always present until failing health compelled her to remain at home. She is the third member to be taken from Olson Camp, and it will always be remembered that she by her work helped to make the little camp that was organized here one of the most successful in Lake county, and her death will be sincerely mourned by its members.

Sarah Catherine Grice was born at Rock Creek, Huntington county, Indiana, on the 2nd day of August, 1859, and passed away at Antioch, Sept. 21, 1907, at the age of 48 years, 1 month and 19 days. She came with her parents to this place when she was nine years of age. She was united in marriage to Henry Billett the 6th day of May, 1877, and Antioch has been their home ever since. To them three children were born, one of whom died in infancy.

She leaves to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother, her husband and one daughter, Mrs. William McNiel, and one son Lloyd, both of this place, besides her mother, Mrs. Mary Grice, three sisters, Mrs. Wm. Bryant, of Bristol; Mrs. W. F. Weigle, of Ripon, Wis., and Mrs. Henry Nolan, of Huntington, Ind.; three brothers, L. B. of this place, George of Aurora, Ill., and Robert of North Chicago, and a large circle of neighbors and friends.

The funeral was held at the M. E. church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock with Rev. F. R. McNamer officiating. The last rites were attended by a large concourse of friends and the Royal Neighbors attended in a body. The floral tokens were many and beautiful and were silent tokens of the respect in which the deceased was held by all who knew her. The remains were laid at rest in the Antioch Hillside cemetery.

The news joins with their many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

SUPERVISORS PROTEST

The bill of C. F. Ingalls, member of the board of review, was protested before the supervisors as it was given in full at $283 and was finally laid over to the December term which opens the 10th. A motion was made to allow $60 for fifteen days.

It is claimed that Mr. Ingalls has been away for a good share of the time the board was in session.

The supervisors agreed at this meeting to cut the taxes of the Chicago & Milwaukee road $21,000, making them $12,000 on the ground that $3,000 was to large an amount.

The report of the auditing committee on the books of the county clerk and treasurer was accepted and it was decided that an expert was not needed.

Perpetual Scintillations. The necessity of perpetually scintillating is one of the most wearing demands of the age.

THREE KILLED IN COLLISION

State Line Road West of Waukegan has First Disaster on Saturday Night

AT CROSSING NEAR GURNEE

Frank Greenman of Aurora and Two Italian Section Hands Instantly Killed—Railroad Company Held Blameless

Three men were struck and instantly killed in a rear end collision between a work train and a railroad velocipede on the Chicago and State Line Railway, the Northwestern air line between Chicago and Milwaukee, at Chittenden's crossing, near Gurnee, Saturday night at 7:30.

The dead are Frank Greenman, 30, day switch operator at Upton Junction, said to be from Aurora, Ill.; Dominick Fumo, 62, Italian section hand from Upton. Rafael Filippi, 32, section hand from Upton and Fumo's son-in-law.

Greenman told his wife Saturday evening at 6:15 that he would take two of the section hands and ride on the velocipede to Kenosha to see some friends. He resided with Mrs. Greenman and his daughter, aged 4, in a box car at Upton, which is the transfer point for the Northwestern three and a half miles southwest of Waukegan.

Mrs. Greenman warned him to be careful of accidents, but he dismissed her fears with a laugh and departed with the two Italians.

Near Chittenden's crossing the velocipede was run down by a one car passenger train used for moving section gangs from part of the fast Northwestern freight line to another.

The men on the velocipede were going north while the work train was backing south. In the darkness they could not see that the train was backing down upon them, but supposed that it too was proceeding north.

All three were instantly killed in the collision. Greenman being ground to bits, while Fumo's head was smashed beyond recognition and his limbs were broken. Filippi was hurled into a ditch and it was not known that he was a victim until twelve hours afterward, when the Hall signal man making a tour of the tracks found his lifeless body yards away from the scene of the accident.

The passenger train backed up and took Fumo and Greenman to Waukegan, first proceeding to Kenosha and taking the Milwaukee division of the Northwestern to Waukegan, where the bodies were removed to the Larson & Conrad mortuary. There they remained for twelve hours without recognition. The body of Filippi was found and taken to the same place Sunday morning.

Sunday morning Rafael Fumo, son of Dominick Fumo, appeared at the mortuary and identified the remains of the two Italians as those of his father and brother-in-law.

Fumo, the elder, has a wife living in Italy, as has Filippi, who also leaves three children. All are from Calabria. Their home in this country is at 263 Taylor street, Chicago.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death and held the railroad company blameless in the matter because it was shown that the three men had violated the rules of the company in not showing a red light on the speeder on which they were riding and also by being on the wrong track.

CLUB 1,000 YEARS OLD.

Chinese Association Has Lately Been Reorganized in England.

The little club that has been established in London under the fascinating title of the "Idlers of the Bamboo Grove," was started in China more than a thousand years ago by a celebrated poet and mystic. This exceedingly old gentleman is still the nominal president of the club, and at the reunions of the "Idlers" a chair is left for him, although the attention seems unnecessary. The society will not be a very large one at any time. At present it consists of a small body of orientalists and literary men who are interested in the east. Needless to say, some members of the Chinese legation are to be found in the ranks.

Hard to Obey. A certain strong man gives these rules for nervous women: Eat when you are hungry; don't eat when you are not; get plenty of sleep; don't worry. The only trouble with these rules are that they are so easy they are hard.

The Mystery OF Carney-Croft

By JOSEPH BROWN COOKE

(Copyright, 1907, by Story Press Corporation.)

"Well," I said, thoughtfully. "Dr. MacArdel put her through a course of spouts that made a strong, hearty man faint away twice, and yet she never said a word nor moved a muscle."

"How delightfully interesting!" said Miss Weston. "I should never have dreamed from her appearance that she had so much fortitude. What could Dr. MacArdel have done that was so thrilling?"

"Oh, he didn't do much," I returned. "He just asked some questions about the things that had been going on, but he did it in a way that was very effective. We wanted to learn who wrote the mysterious note that I had received on the night of my arrival. We found out that she did it, but it was only by chance and not through anything that she told us. If she had been a little more clever in delivering the other I am afraid we would be in the dark about it yet."

"And so this Mrs. Bruce really wrote them both, did she?" asked Miss Weston, with continued interest. "What a horrible creature she must be!"

"I don't believe she is exactly horrible," I said, cautiously, "but she certainly wrote the second note, and whoever wrote that one must have written the first as well."

"Wouldn't it be interesting if some more would come?" cried Miss Weston, enthusiastically. "I think it would be the greatest fun in the world!"

"You might change your mind if it really happened," I said with a smile. "These things are well enough after they are explained, but before that time, they strike one rather seriously, as I know from experience."

"Well, I'd be willing to try it just for once," said Miss Weston, confidently. "I'm simply crazy to see what a real good mystery is like at first hand."

As I chanced to move my plate a folded paper was disclosed and I hastily slipped it into my lap and read it surreptitiously. It said:

"You have not kept Miss Carney and her friends away. Do not be surprised if the ghosts return."

"Your wish is granted, Miss Weston," I exclaimed, holding it up in my hand. "Here is one of the spook notes this very minute. It is under my plate."

"Oh, do let me take it!" she entreated, and I passed it to her by way of Miss Carney, who read it thoughtfully before handing it to her friend.

The moment Miss Watson saw the paper a most unaccountable thing occurred. Her face blanched and she swayed in her seat for an instant as if in danger of falling, but regaining her self-control in another moment, she exclaimed:

"How silly I am! This ridiculous note made me quite dizzy for a minute. Where did you say you found it, Mr. Ware? Under your plate, here at the table? Why, some one must be playing a joke on all us!"

"No doubt," I returned, watching her closely. "But it may prove to be a very serious joke. You see, a thing of this kind is more startling than one would expect. I've grown rather used to it myself, but you seem to be quite upset over it."

"Oh, it's just for the moment," said Miss Weston, with a forced laugh. "I didn't get much sleep last night and this thing came on me so suddenly and unexpectedly that it quite took my breath away."

A moment later she left the table on some trivial pretext, and Miss Carney called the butler, who had left us to our coffee before this conversation began, and questioned him closely as to the affairs of the morning. He said that he had laid the plates himself not long before we came down to breakfast and that while he had not been in the room all the time he was positive that no one could have entered without his knowledge.

"It looks as if you must have slipped it under your plate yourself," Mr. Ware, said Miss Carney in a bantering tone that ill betokened her true frame of mind. "There doesn't seem to be any other explanation. And do you really think the ghosts will come back again? I shall not let you go away until they are permanently suppressed, you may be sure."

"I know I appear to be guilty," I replied with a laugh, "but I assure you I am not. You are merely having a taste of the same mysterious phenomena that I myself saw here last summer. I cannot say whether the ghosts will return or not, but I scarcely think they will. If they do, we know where to go to discourage them."

"But how do you suppose the note was placed under your plate?" asked Miss Carney, in an anxious tone. "I don't like this sort of thing at all! It makes me dreadfully nervous."

"I haven't the slightest idea," I said, frankly. "But I am sure we will find out all about it before long. You know the other notes seemed very mysterious at first, but we soon explained them without the slightest difficulty." As I said these words I thanked my lucky stars that I had taken the precaution to keep Miss Carney in ignorance concerning the cigar case and the odor of the rags that we found in Jenks' possession. For my part, the mystery of Carney-Croft seemed to be growing deeper and deeper, and yet I felt it my duty to my hostess to make as light of the matter as possible, especially in the presence of her other guests.

After breakfast Miss Carney and I walked down toward the river together and passed the spot where MacArdel had questioned Jenks and the widow.

"This is where you saw the ghosts, isn't it?" asked Miss Carney, with a little nervous shudder.

"Yes," I replied, "and we could have captured them, too, if we had not been so sure that we already had bigger game in our hands."

"I do hope they won't come back again," she said with a shiver. "I'm almost as much upset over it as Annie was. But she is not at all well, Mr. Ware. Do you know, I really think she is growing weaker and weaker every day. Her spirits keep her up and all that, but she certainly hasn't the strength she used to have."

"I suppose that is why the note affected her so," I returned. "You remember, she was actually calling for some ghostly manifestation only a moment before, and yet you must have noticed how completely she lost her head when I found the paper."

"But not until she had read it," said Miss Carney. "She didn't seem to mind it at all until then, you know."

"It almost seemed to me that she recognized the writing," I said guardedly. "Did you ever see it before?"

I handed Miss Carney the note, which was in the flowing hand of the Widow Bruce as MacArdel and I had could tell by the way she spoke and when she opened the door to answer me she wouldn't let me see her face." "Perhaps she is a trifle ashamed of her ignominious collapse at the table this morning after she had expressed so much bravery only the moment before," I suggested. "She was evidently deeply affected all of a sudden, you know."

"Yes," said Miss Carney, soberly, "and I don't understand it at all. But I am sure she knows nothing about the writing. How could she, Mr. Ware, when I cannot recognize it myself? It was just a nervous attack, of course, but I wish she did not take it so seriously, for the least little thing uses her up so."

Nothing was said at the luncheon table about the affair of the morning, and Miss Weston's vacant chair seemed to give an air of gloom to the whole party.

In the afternoon I wandered about the grounds by myself, trying to decide what I ought to do. The quandary I was in was not one to be easily surmounted, for, while I realized that my duty to Miss Carney, as well as my own personal inclinations in the matter, called upon me most imperatively to clear up this mystery promptly and at any cost, I was still convinced that Miss Weston's share in the affair was entirely unexpected by her and due to no wilful act of her own, and the pathetic appeal in her eyes when I handed her Mrs. Bruce's letter was enough to make me preserve her secret faithfully for the present at least.

It was beginning to grow dark as I turned to go back to the house and, when about half way up the "ghost walk," as we had jokingly named the path that led to the river, I saw Miss Weston coming slowly toward me. She must have heard my step at the same instant, and, looking up, she hastened to my side and laid her hand on my seen it on that eventful night in the summer. She studied it carefully for some time and then said:

"No, it is totally unfamiliar to me. I hardly think that Annie knows anything about it, either. It was merely her weakness that upset her, Mr. Ware. You cannot realize how feeble she is."

We returned to the house as the morning mail arrived and it chanced to be handed to me for distribution. As I sorted over the letters I came across one for Miss Weston and it was addressed in the now well-known hand of the Bruce woman and had been posted in the village the day before. I stuffed it in my pocket without comment, and when I had an opportunity to hand it to its owner, she returned my significant glance with a look of such pathetic appeal that I knew she was innocent of any wrong doing, and that, at the most, she had become unwittingly entangled in this almost unfathomable mystery, which seemed to grow from hour to hour.

CHAPTER XVI.

From Another Angle.

Miss Carney knew nothing of the letter that Miss Weston had received from Mrs. Bruce, and when I saw her again, just before luncheon, she expressed great concern over her friend's condition.

"Do you know, Mr. Ware," she said anxiously, "Annie was dreadfully upset over that note this morning. She has shut herself in her room all day and even refuses to see me. I have just tried to persuade her to come down to luncheon, but she won't do it, and says she doesn't want anything sent up, either. She has so little strength now that it worries me to have her go without her meals in this way, and then, she has been crying, too, which is very bad for her and a thing that she almost never does. I arm while her bosom rose and fell, her eyes filled with tears, and her form trembled with suppressed emotion.

"Oh, Mr. Ware," she whispered, "you were so good this morning not to let any one see that letter. It was so foolish of them to send it in that way, right through the mail, though there was only a chance that anyone but a servant would have seen it. You won't tell of it, Mr. Ware? I know you won't," she sobbed softly. "I beg of you, Mr. Ware; I beg of you, do not speak of it for a few days at least, until I can find out what should be done."

I led her to a seat by the side of the path and tried to calm her with reassuring words, but her nervousness seemed only to increase.

"I cannot tell you now what I know about it all," she went on, wiping away the tears that flowed freely down her face. "Oh, it's too terrible even to think of, and yet no one has done any wrong. You must trust me implicitly, Mr. Ware, and the time may come when I can tell you everything. But not now. I even know very little about it myself, and that little chills the very blood in my veins. May God forgive me," she murmured; "it is all my fault, and yet I have done no wrong. You must believe that, Mr. Ware, as you would believe your own senses, and trust me in everything, or I shall go mad!"

Go to England to Marry.

Every year from 800 to 1,200 couples go to England from the continent, mostly from Germany, to get married. To comply with the conditions of the English law the bride usually comes over first, stays one night in a hotel and gives notice of the marriage on the following day. Then the man arrives and the ceremony takes place. It is generally by license, as otherwise both would have to be in England for four weeks.

CONSTABLES LEVY AMID RIOT.

Taking Bed from Sick Baby Arouses Citizens of Joliet.

Joliet.—Riot marked the attempt of two constables and their helpers to remove the furniture from the home of Mrs. Aurora Peterson, 225 Comstock street, following an attack by them upon Mrs. Peterson, who protested against their taking the bed on which her sick baby lay. The woman pleaded that the baby would die, but was not heeded by the constables. They put the infant on the floor, striking Mrs. Peterson when she attempted to interfere. Neighbors heard her screams and surrounded the house. A riot call was sent in and a patrol wagon filled with detectives was hurried to the scene. When the police reached the house the constables had completed their levy and had left, taking all the furniture with them.

NAPERVILLE GIRL WINS.

Rivalry Between Illinois Towns in Beauty Contest.

Wheaton.—The country fair of 1907 is now a thing of memory only, but it left behind it results far more substantial. The Chicago Lying-In hospital, in the interest of which society of the western suburbs has been busy-ing itself for several weeks, is the richer to-day by approximately $15,000.

A leading feature of the program was the beauty contest, which excited the liveliest rivalry in the group of small towns in Dupage county surrounding Wheaton. The contest was particularly keen between Wheaton and Naperville. The first award was given to Miss May Cooper, of Naperville, with a Wheaton young woman, Miss Laura Sauer, second in the list. That the honors were evenly distributed is proved by the fact that the third prize went to Miss Jessie Higley, of Glen Ellyn, the fourth to Miss Hattie Ketcham, of Eola, and the fifth to Miss Evelyn Martin, of South Chicago.

Boy and Girl Elopers.

Decatur.—Thomas M. Taylor, barely past his sixteenth birthday, and Miss Pearl Eelbert Chapman, scarcely 17 years old, both of Boody, traveled to St. Louis, secured a license to be married and then calmly informed the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, of their intention and asked their consent to the marriage. J. H. Latham, of this city, guardian of the Taylor boy, was also asked to give his consent. After much persuasion the necessary consent was obtained and the couple joined by the Methodist minister.

Four Husbands Meet Tragic Death.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved in Three Months.

Mr. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes:

"I have suffered with kidney and other trouble for ten years past."

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain."

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Peruna For Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time."

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Mannin."

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Mannin, and now I feel better than I have for some time."

"I feel that Peruna and Mannin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. They are times when they need a little assistance.

Peruna is exactly the sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

BRIDE'S RUSE IS TOO EFFECTIVE

NERVOUS, SHE PUTS ON "HUB-BY'S" CLOTHES TO SCARE SUPPOSED BURGLAR.

MISTAKEN FOR A STRANGER

Newly-Married Man, Furiously Jealous, Breaks into Own Home and Finds His Suspicion Are Unfounded.

Middletown, N. Y.—"Dearest," murmured the young husband, clasping his wife in close embrace, "I shall stay away from the club, I swear it. I shall remain at home and protect you."

Although newly married, the young husband had rather neglected his bride for the club. He was there last night until very late. But he is not there tonight. For the startling events here related and his soul-sickening suspicions are still very fresh in his mind.

At home his wife was reading the newspapers and as it chanced, about the hour that graveyards yawn, she read a vivid account of a murder. She became very nervous and started at the slightest noise; was convinced that a burglar was at the shutter, then that he was pacing to and fro before the house.

"He must not know I am alone," she said to herself. "I must make him believe there is a man in the house."

Trembling, she quickly put on a suit of her husband's clothes and a hat of his. Although her heart was fluttering she opened the front door and displayed for a moment what she fondly believed was a masculine figure to the lurking burglar. As she turned to go in her husband, returning from the club in the darkness, saw the hat, the coat, and, worst of all, the trousers, then saw the man invade his dove-cote. Half mad with sudden jealousy he rushed to the door and hurled himself against it just as his wife within locked it.

She shrieked in terror; the murderous burglar was trying to gain entrance by force.

"Open the door, scoundrel!" hoarsely cried the husband. "Open the door that I may kill you!"

"Go away! Go away!" shrieked she, forgetting all about the trousers she wore, about her assumed manhood. "Go 'way! I've telephoned for the police—for my husband. He will kill you!"

"Let me see—my wife—no, I will not call you wife. You and your—let me in, I tell you!" yelled the husband, and with the force of ten men he threw himself against the door.

The lock snapped, the door flew open, the wife fainted. He stumbled over her, but, a true man, he would take no advantage of a fallen foe. He touched a button and flooded the hall with light.

"Mary!" he shouted, raising her.

"Oh, John," she said when she revived. "I thought you were a burglar."

"And I thought—but never mind what I thought," he said, and promised to stay home o' nights.

Her name is not Mary, nor his John. They are a most popular young married couple, so their sensitive feelings are spared; their names are withheld.

To Honor Arctic Explorer.

A memorial to the aeronaut Salomon August Andree will be unveiled in Stockholm on July 11, the tenth anniversary of Andree's balloon ascent in the effort to reach the North Pole, from which he did not return. The design selected by the Stockholm Geographical society, under whose auspices it will be erected, is the work of Eric Lindberg, of Stockholm, who describes the bas-relief as follows:

"In the distance may be seen the airship on its journey, with Sweden in the foreground, represented by a female figure looking anxiously toward the departing adventurers. An old man also looks with misgiving toward the horizon, but youth, typified by a group of students, shows its confidence in the discoverer by cheering him." Under the sculptured group is a portrait of Andree, and the names of his intrepid companions, Strindberg and Frankel, appear in the short inscription.—Illustrirte Zeitung.

PET SOUTHERN PULLET GETS ON DAILY JAGS

ACQUIRES HABIT AT CASK WHERE BOTTLES ARE FILLED AND BECOMES A TOPER.

New Orleans.—Chickens, though inordinate gluttons, are generally supposed to be quite abstemious in their use of intoxicants, but Herman Elcke, of this city, has a big pet pullet, with a fondness for "red liquor" that leads to its frequent disgrace. A barrel of wine, kept in the yard, was the temptation that led the pullet astray. As bottles were filled the observant fowl noted a few bright red drops trembling on the edge of the spigot.

The rest followed in logical sequence. Investigation, assimilation, intoxication. Then it began all over again. The appetite was created, and the chicken has been piling up regular jags ever since.

With a rakish cock of its head and a cynical wink, the chicken strode deliberately up to the barrel just after a bottle had been drawn. It eyed at the pendant ruby first from one side and then the other much like a bon vivant playing the light through his glass; and there was a quick jerk of the curving neck and the drop was gone. The chicken seemed to throw out its chest, then it rubbed its bill on the pavement a time or two, and peeped at the spigot, where another drop was beginning to grow large.

"Have another on myself," this immoral fowl plainly spoke in the sign language, and the second drink went the way of the first. The flirtation with the spigot went on until seven or eight drinks had been absorbed and the wine ceased to run. The chicken wandered off, keeping a watchful eye on the big barrel. Another bottle was filled, and again the wine sparkled in the morning sun. The chicken had another bunch of drinks on itself.

"Does that pullet ever get drunk?" was asked of Mr. Elcke.

"Guess it does; acts that way," was the response, and out in the yard the feathered toper was looking more and more rakish, with its wings beginning to drag, its feathers disarranged and a general air of dissoluteness that was simply shocking.

CAT HAS THRILLING TRIP.

Clings to Pilot on Passenger Engine for Forty Miles.

Pittsburg, Pa.—A cat looking as though it called somewhere between Altoona and Gallitzin its home had a ride the other afternoon, and now the feline is located, temporarily, at least, in Pittsburg.

The cat left home involuntarily, and the manner in which it arrived in Pittsburg was somewhat thrilling. When train No. 5 arrived at Union station the other night, long before it had come to a stop it was noticed that some black and white object was on the cow catcher. When the train came to a stop the object moved, then moved, and then, when it had got its breath, it crawled down off the cow catcher, and, all shrunk and depressed in appearance, walked across the tracks and lost itself in the darkness of Liberty street.

The white spots on the animal were very much bedraggled; escaping steam or water had wet its fur until it looked like a drowned object, and the flight of the locomotive had made the cat wobble on its feet. Trainmen say that when the train came to a stop it had its front paws wrapped around one of the signal rods like a condemned man clinging to a last hope. They say they do not know where the cat got on, but think that they picked it up on the fly somewhere when the engine had slowed down.

Girls Steal Fifty-Mile Ride.

Sunbury, Pa.—On a dare, Sadie Mullen and Maggie Marr, two Marysville young women, jumped a passing freight train, expecting to ride but a short distance, but were soon horrified to discover it was a special en route to this city, 50 miles away.

Night was fast approaching and it was impossible for them to notify any of the crew. Every moment they feared death as they clung to the brake wheel, both standing on the sill. The adjoining car had no end sill and their sole support was the narrow sill and the straps on the box car.

The train stopped here in the yard at midnight, when the yard men accompanied the girls to a hotel and early next morning they took a passenger train for home.

New Fire Escape.

A Swiss engineer has perfected a new fire-escape. It consists of a series of folding ladders, attached to window frames. Each ladder reaches from one window to the next one below it. By turning a crank on any floor all of the frames beneath are unfolded in less than a minute and form a continuous means of descending to the ground.

Male Bee's Life Short.

As with the male bee, the male wasp is stingless, but, unlike the bee, his body is elongated and he carries longer antennae than his mate. He dies on the approach of fall.

Bats in Belfries.

"Bats in belfries are a frightful nuisance," said a young clergyman. "In the belfry of dear old Saint Jude's they are as thick as flies, and I don't know how to get rid of them. They eat the candles, you know, the communion cloths, the vestments, the incense, the matings, and they even drink the consecrated wine. Strange it is to think of bats doing that, isn't it? A strange bat diet, truly—candles, incense, embroidered vestments and holy wine. I have tried to smoke out the pests by burning sulphur, but they appear rather to like those fumes. For a sure way to rid my belfry of its bats I'd gladly give two dollars."

Barley, Bread and Beer

These three words are derived from the same Anglo Saxon root—breowan.

All three are foods. Barley, a grain that makes both bread and beer. Bread, a solid food. Beer, a liquid food.

In making bread, flour and yeast are used; in making beer, barley-malt, hops and yeast are used. The same principle is in each—both are wholesome foods.

In Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer the Pabst Eight-Day Malting Process matures the malt slowly and uniformly, thus transforming every particle of nutriment in the barley into perfect food substances.

To these are added the invigorating properties of the choicest hops, by the Pabst brewing process, which insures absolute purity.

Your system requires a liquid. Why not use one that is both food and drink—

Pabst Blue Ribbon The Beer of Quality

EDITORIAL NOTES.

When a French naval ship took fire, not long ago, the fire was permitted to reach the magazine and nearly a thousand lives were lost, in addition to the destruction of the vessel. When the U. S. battleship, Indiana took fire recently a picked crew of officers and men went into the magazine and carried out all the ammunition, despite the fact that many of the shells and ammunition boxes were so hot they blistered the hands of the men handling them. This recalls the remark of a noted Englishman, that "only an Anglo-Saxon should be permitted to carry firearms."

There was a general disposition to believe that the Philippine election demonstrated that the Filipinos were utterly incapable of self government and that the Philippine Assembly was destined to prove a failure. Secretary Taft and others who have made a study of the Philippine problem take a wholly contrary view. They say they appreciate that the Filipinos are not capable of self government and they have known it all along, but the only way the Filipinos can learn is by practice and the new assembly will give them the opportunity to thus acquire the art, while no measure adopted by the assembly can become a law without the approval of the Philippine Commission, and therefore no harm can be done. On the other hand, when the assembly passes a good law it will receive the approval of the commission, which, it will be remembered, is appointed by the President of the United States, and the exultation of the Filipino legislators when they have passed a good law will constitute an incentive to further efforts along the right lines. In a word, the United States has undertaken to educate the Philippine people in the difficult art of self government and it is not going to be disappointed because the first attempts along that line are crude and injudicious.

Those people, politicians, statesmen and doctrinaires, who named President Roosevelt "the war lord" have most of them lived to see how far from the truth was their description, to witness his winning of the Nobel Peace Prize awarded by a foreign commission, which cannot have been biased in its judgment by political considerations, to witness the United States during his administration, taking the lead of all the nations of the earth in the promotion of universal peace at the Hague Conference, and elsewhere. So rapidly do events follow one another in these strenuous days that it seems almost like referring to ancient history to speak of the part the President played in bringing about a conclusion of hostilities between Russia and Japan, the great achievement which won for him the Nobel Prize. And still farther back, the nations of the earth witnessed the United States setting the example of submitting for arbitration to the Hague what it considered a perfectly just claim against Venezuela. This was done at the instance of Mr. Roosevelt and he it was who said there must be no protest when the Hague decided against this country and in favor of Great Britain, Germany and Italy. When Germany and France were ready to fly at each others' throats over the Moroccan question, President Roosevelt sent Ambassador White to the Algeiras convention, and we have on the authority of a high German diplomat, that had it not been for the part played by Mr. White, who was recognized as the one wholly disinterested delegate to that convention, it could never have arrived at a peaceful solution of the difficulties which confronted it. Within a few weeks the President has again shown his loyalty to the principle of international arbitration and demonstrated his good intentions by prevailing upon our neighbors, the Central American Republics, to cease hostilities and preparations therefor, and to arrange for a peace conference at Washington at which shall be perfected a treaty providing that all disputes which cannot be settled by diplomatic negotiations shall be decided by arbitration. And finally, within the past week, the President has again given evidence of his faith in arbitration by inducing Great Britain to agree to arbitrate the differences between the United States and herself over the New Foundland fisheries question. And in doing this the President fully realizes that this country may not secure all that is its right, but he is willing to take the risk in order to reach a peaceful settlement and to set the example to other nations of a great nation, the loser in the last case it submitted to arbitration, again resorting to that peaceful tribunal rather than risking the arbitrament of war. Truly, such a "war lord" as Theodore Roosevelt is good for the cause of peace.

Hopkins is said to have put on Health Commissioner LaRose's desk in Zion City a death certificate not fully made out and reading that "rheumatism was the tributory cause," not a scintilla of statement as to the real cause being given.

"I did not know the neck was broken," said Greenhalgh when told of the coroner's jury discovery. "My mother's neck was always stiff from the fact that she was bedridden and I noticed that when the Mitchell lifted her into the chair Wednesday her head hung limp and could not understand it."

He strenuously denied that the woman had been choked to death.

This was at first the theory as Mitchell is alleged by various people to be a stranger and cases in which he strangled a boy until there were cries for help and also a girl are being repeated on the streets of Zion City.

In fact, the police and some of the prominent people contend that he is a dangerous maniac with homicidal tendencies and that his mania, induced by his devil casting belief, takes the terror striking form of grappling his victims by their throats and choking them.

In connection with the hasty action taken by Deputy Coroner Conrad in starting the inquest at Zion, people have wondered why there was need of such haste.

The reason is that the Zion police had received a tip that Harold Mitchell, the alleged leader of the terrible attack on the victim, was preparing to skip the city and they wished to be placed in position legally to hold him. That is why the coroner's office was asked to act and act quickly, to prevent him skipping the city.

Undertaker Hopkins may find himself in a bad way before he gets through with the Zion City tragedy. It was brought to Deputy Conrad that the son had told Hopkins that the mother's limbs were broken and how it was done, but that, despite this, the undertaker had gone ahead and embalmed the body.

This course was most unusual and unpardonable, according to the local authorities and Hopkins may be made to "sweat" for it. He should, under the law, have communicated at once with the authorities but, it is said, he is a member of the cult and was willing to take the step he did.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict as follows:

"We, the undersigned jurors, sworn to inquire into the death of Mrs. Letitia Greenhalgh, according to the evidence and post mortem examination, find on oath that she came to her death by violence at the hands of Harold Mitchell and Mrs. May Mitchell as principals, and Walter Greenhalgh, Jennie Greenhalgh and Louisa

Schmidt as accessories, and hold each of the foregoing to the grand jury to answer to the charge of manslaughter.

"We, the jury, also find that Undertaker B. J. Hopkins was an accessory after the act, in that he violated the state law in regard to issuing death certificates, and, inasmuch as the evidence shows that the laws and regulations pertaining to the issuance of death certificates have been wantonly violated in Zion City by Health Officer M. J. LaRose and B. J. Hopkins, we respectfully call upon the state board of health to investigate the matter and recommend that it take such steps in the matter as it may deem necessary.

"And we find that certain practices are being carried on in Zion City, under the leadership of one Parham, which are both disgraceful and dangerous to society, and we believe that these practices should be thoroughly investigated by the proper authorities."

There are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. The food may satisfy the appetite but it fails to nourish the body simply because the stomach is not in fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by J. H. Swan.

A Noble Idea.

Just to be good, to keep life pure from degrading elements, to make it constantly helpful in little ways to those who are touched by it, to keep one's spirit always sweet and avoid all manner of petty anger and irritability—that is an idea as noble as it is difficult.

Stomach troubles, heart and kidney ailments, can be quickly corrected with a prescription known to druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative. The prompt and surprising relief which this remedy immediately brings is entirely due to its restorative action upon the controlling nerves of the stomach, etc. A weak stomach, causing dyspepsia, a weak heart with palpitation or intermittent pulse, always means weak stomach nerves or weak heart nerves. Strengthen these inside or controlling nerves with Dr. Shoop's Restorative and see how quickly these ailments disappear. Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis., will mail samples free. Write for them. A test will tell. Your health is certainly worth his simple trial. Sold by J. H. Swan.

TRUST FOOLS TEXAS

CORSICANA COMPANY BELIEVED TO BE PART OF STANDARD.

TILFORD DOES NOT KNOW

Attorney Kellogg Says Officers of Latter Control the Former—Immense Personal Profits of J. D. Rockefeller.

New York.—That the Standard Oil company is operating under the name of the Corsicana Refining company in the state of Texas, which has forbidden the oil combine to operate within the state, was indicated Thursday, when Wesley H. Telford, treasurer of the Standard Oil company, under examination in the government's suit against the company, testified that H. C. Folger and C. M. Payne, who Frank Kellogg, the attorney for the government, states control the Corsicana company, are prominent in the conduct of affairs of the Standard Oil company.

Mr. Kellogg sought to draw from the witness the information that the Corsicana company was really a Standard Oil company and was operating in Texas because the anti-trust laws of that state would not permit the combine to operate there. Mr. Telford replied that, so far as he knew, the Standard Oil company had no interests in Texas. He said that Mr. Folger and Mr. Payne were both officers of the Standard Oil company, but he was not aware that they owned the Corsicana company.

Another interesting development was the official statement made for the first time, of John D. Rockefeller's personal holdings in the Standard Oil company. Just to what extent the reputed head was individually interested in the great concern has long been a matter of speculation. It was brought out that Mr. Rockefeller owned 256,854 shares, or more than one-fourth of the total 972,500 certificates of the Standard Oil company.

Based on the earnings of the company as placed on record Tuesday, it is computed that Mr. Rockefeller's personal profits during the past eight years have aggregated almost $125,000,000. At Tuesday's hearing it was testified that in the years 1899 to 1906 inclusive, the Standard Oil company had earned total profits of $490,315,934.

A Big Profit in Oil.

The statement of the earnings of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, which was recently fined $29,240,000 by Judge Landis, of Chicago, for rebating, disclosed that in 1906 the company earned no less than $10,516,082 on a capitalization of $1,000,000, or over 1,000 per cent. a year. The Indiana company in 1906 earned more than any subsidiary company of the big combine.

In a period of eight years, from 1899 to 1906 inclusive, the company, on a statement spread upon the records of Tuesday's hearings, was shown to have earned total profits of $490,315,934, or at the rate of more than $61,000,000 a year, and distributed to its shareholders in the same period $308,359,102.

THIRTY KILLED IN WRECK.

Disastrous Accident Occurs on the Mexican Central Road.

Mexico City.—There has been a disastrous wreck on the Mexican Central railroad. A freight train and a passenger train came into collision at Encarnacion, near the city of Aguas Calientes, and it is reported that 30 persons were killed and many injured. The passenger train was the regular El Paso express, which left that city Tuesday.

No train from the United States came in Thursday over the Central. It is impossible to get further details of the wreck. The railroad officials here admit that the wreck occurred, but refuse to talk of the matter.

CAGE FALLS AND ELEVEN DIE

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT IN MINE AT NEGAUNEE, MICH.

Brake Falls to Work—Miners Hurl'd Down 75 Feet—Seven Found Alive But Fatally Hurt.

Negaunee, Mich.—By a cage plunging 75 feet down the shaft of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company mine, 11 men were killed and seven fatally injured Friday.

The cage with its human freight was being lowered on its first trip for the day when the brake on the hoisting drum suddenly failed to hold. Two other men sprang to the assistance of the one at the brake wheel, but their combined efforts did not avail and the wire cable continued to unravel from the drum like thread from a bobbin.

The cage shot down a couple of hundred feet before a kink in the too rapidly paying out cable caused it to part and from that point the cage had a sheer drop to the bottom of the shaft. The safety catches with which it was equipped failed to operate.

Workmen at the bottom of the mine immediately set about the gruesome task of removing the dead. Seven men were found still alive, but they are fatally hurt.

Thousands of people soon congregated about the mine shaft. In the crowd were the wives and children of the 200 men who are employed in the mine. Each thought that husband or parent or a son was in the cage. There was no way of relieving the suspense, as the fallen cage blocked the exit. It was fully two hours before the cable was adjusted so that the cage could be raised to the surface.

When all the miners came from under ground and many anxious wives and others failed to find members of their families who worked in the mine, the scene was awful. The priests and ministers moved among the people consoling them and begging them to be calm.

WOMAN SLAIN BY ROBBER.

Chicago Kindergarten Principal Is Found Choked to Death.

Chicago.—Mrs. Lillian White Grant, 40 years old, a widow, well known in Hyde Park and principal of a kindergarten, conducted in the building of the University Congregational church, was found murdered in her room at 5520 Madison avenue, Friday.

Every article of jewelry owned by Mrs. Grant was missing and it is believed robbery was the object of the murderer. Her body was found lying across the bed dressed only in night clothing. One of her own garments was twisted tightly about her neck and knotted under her left ear. Death had been caused by strangulation or a broken neck.

The imprints of the fingers of the woman's assailant were found on her neck, which was broken by the murderer. A colored man who had been assisting Mrs. Grant in preparing to move is being sought by the police.

NOVELTY IN LA CROSSE, WIS.

Electric Light Company Is Ordered to Increase Its Rates.

La Crosse, Wis.—By a decision handed down Friday by the state railway commission, the electric lighting rates charged by the La Crosse Gas & Electric company are declared to be too low and unremunerative and the company is ordered to put a higher scale of rates into effect.

This is the first decision of this kind ever made in the state. Under the new state law, public service corporations, as well as customers, may appeal to the commission for relief, and this step was taken by the local corporation.

GETTING AT THE SECRETS.

BURNS THE MOOR CAMP

DRUDE RESUMES HOSTILITIES, NEGOTIATIONS FAILING.

French in Quick March—Expedition Beset by Natives—Repels Their Brilliant Charges.

Casablanca.—Negotiations for the cessation of hostilities having failed, Gen. Drude Sunday resumed the offensive and burned the Moorish camps at Sidi Brahim, south of Casablanca, and dispersed the tribesmen, who offered but little resistance.

These operations were chiefly notable for a brilliant forced march of the French troops, who covered 40 kilometers inside of 12 hours. The expedition, consisting of 2,000 infantry, with a detachment of cavalry, artillery and native auxiliaries, left camp before dawn and formed into two hollow squares, one behind the other. In this formation they marched some distance under the cover of darkness and unobserved by the tribesmen.

A heavy morning sea fog came up at daybreak and forced a half-hour's halt, during which shots fired by the advance guards gave the alarm to the enemy. The tribesmen came up in large numbers, but a vigorous attack by the first square soon dispersed them. No further stand was made by the enemy during the march, although scattered groups of horsemen harassed the French flanks.

After the destruction of the camps had been effected the tribesmen returned to the attack, a troop of cavalry repelling a spirited charge by the Moorish horsemen. The French then abandoned their defensive formation and the column returned to camp. Their losses were one killed and ten wounded.

THIRTY-TWO PASSENGERS HURT.

Broken Rail Wrecks Limited Train on the Western Road.

Washington.—Thirty-two passengers were injured, none of them seriously, the Chattanooga & Washington Limited train on the Southern railway, just north of Ryan's siding, early Sunday. A broken rail was the cause of the accident. The entire train, composed of a baggage car, day coach and three sleepers, left the track, the sleepers being almost destroyed by fire. A special train was quickly made up and came to this city with all the passengers of the limited.

LOW FARE LAW HIT AGAIN.

Jail Delivery at Laporte, Ind. Laporte, Ind.—After knocking down the wife of Sheriff Smutzer with an iron rod wrenched from a bed, when she stepped into the cell corridor to give a drink of water to a sick prisoner Thursday night, Arthur Cummings and John Edwards, awaiting grand jury action on grand larceny charges, escaped from the Laporte county jail.

Mrs. Smutzer, though badly hurt, crawled to the outside door and locked it, preventing the escape of 11 other prisoners who were about to rush out.

Life Sentence for Constantine.

Coal Pockets at Hornell Burned.

THE PRESIDENT TO CAMP.

He Will Spend 17 Days in Cane Brakes of Louisiana.

Oyster Bay, N. Y.—Seventeen days of real vacation, with none of the duties of his office to worry him, is what President Roosevelt is to have when he goes into camp next month, and it will be most welcome to him.

Though nominally on his vacation at Oyster Bay this summer, there have been but few hours in which official business has not intruded. A physical and mental recreation, as complete as his cares will permit, is now arranged. President Roosevelt will pitch his camp in the northeastern corner of Louisiana, on or about October 5. The exact spot is yet to be determined.

The plans provide for a "camping trip," but every one who knows northeastern Louisiana knows that the cane brakes shelter game worthy of a huntsman of presidential calibre. Those who have the good fortune to make pleasant the president's camp, expect that the monotony of camp life will occasionally be broken by a hunt.

COMPRESS TRUST ILLEGAL.

Mississippi Court Ousts the Concern from That State.

Vicksburg, Miss.—The Gulf Compress company was Saturday afternoon declared an illegal trust by Chancellor R. S. Hicks, of the Mississippi district court. He gave the company one year to wind up its business in this state and withdraw. He denied the state's application for a receiver.

The Gulf Compress company was organized two years ago and now owns and controls 31 compresses, 16 of which are located in Mississippi. These plants in a measure control the cotton business of the state, at least the price of compressing, increased the rates for storing cotton and lowered the value of seed, according to the allegations, until the gulf company is doing business in restraint of trade.

THREE CHIEF TRIBES ACCEPT TERMS OF THE FRENCH.

Features of the Agreement Made Between Gen. Drude and Delegates from the Moroccan Natives.

Paris.—Peace has been declared in Morocco. The delegates of three important tribes have accepted the French peace overtures and will see that the terms of the agreement are carried out. Hostilities are now at an end.

The peace terms are as follows: Hostilities shall cease at once; Gen. Drude may make military reconnaissances throughout the territory of the three tribes to satisfy himself that the pacification is complete; the tribes engage themselves to disperse and chastise all armed bodies that may assemble in their territory with hostile intent; every native found in the possession of arms or munitions of war within ten miles of Casablanca shall be handed over to the sheriff authorities, condemned to imprisonment and fined $200; the tribes shall be held responsible for the carrying out of the previous stipulation; every native detected in smuggling or using arms shall be punished; the delegates of the tribes undertake to surrender the authors of the outrages upon Europeans of July 30 and, pending judgment, their goods shall be seized and sold irrespective of the indemnity which is to be paid, the amount of which be fixed by the Moroccan government; the Casablanca tribes shall pay a large indemnity, the part of each tribe to be apportioned according to the length of time it resisted the French. In addition, the Chaoula tribes shall pay a contribution toward the harbor works at Casablanca.

To secure the carrying out of this convention, two notables of each tribe shall be given up as hostages. The delegates of the Ouleseyan, Zenata and Zyada tribes immediately named their hostages and sighted the capitulation.

PROPRIETARY REMEDIES VS. PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS

Statistics Show, of the Deaths from Misuse of Drugs in Two Years, Only Three Per Cent. Were Due to Patent Medicines, According to Figures Based on Medical Certificates.

The press committee of the Proprietary Association of America will present at the next meeting of that body a report showing the number of accidental deaths caused by patent medicines in the two years ending June 30, 1907, as compared with deaths from other causes.

Almost immediately after the beginning of the latest crusade against proprietary medicines this committee was instructed to collect data. This work was done through the clipping bureaus, which furnished accounts of all deaths, exclusive of suicide, due to the misuse of medicines, drugs or poisons. The result showed that only three per cent. could be traced directly to the products made by the members of the association.

The greatest care is said to have been exercised in tabulating the figures received. Whenever the cause of death was doubtful, special investigation was made, no matter where the case might have occurred. The work of ascertaining and preparing the record was done in Chicago, and the original clippings and correspondence are in the possession of Ervin F. Kemp, 184 La Salle street, that city, the association's publicity agent. The report says, in part:

"A large number of accidents, resulting fatally or otherwise, were caused by the carelessness of persons who left drugs, medicines or poisons within the reach of children. A large number, also, were caused by persons going to medicine cabinets in the dark and taking down the wrong bottle. In no case reported was any medicine, 'patent' or otherwise, held responsible for injury or death except when left within the reach of children or taken or administered in gross overdose."

The committee says that it is unlikely that any cases of death from the use of patent medicine escaped the newspapers, but that it is probable that death from the causes tabulated did occur without receiving publicity. Physicians, of course, report the causes of death. The committee says that they would be the last to suppress the cause if due to the use of medicine not regularly prescribed.

A recapitulation of the committee's findings show 4,295 cases of poisoning, of which 1,763 were fatal. The greatest number of cases, 1,636, with 803 deaths, is attributed to medicines other than proprietary remedies. There are on the list 90 cases of sickness and 43 deaths due to patent medicines.

Analyzing its statistics, the committee finds 201 cases of sickness, with 143 deaths, due to strychnine tablets, which are among physicians' favorite remedies and are often left within the reach of children.

Under the head of miscellaneous prescriptions are grouped 44 cases where, the report says, it has been impossible after diligent inquiry to ascertain the name or the character of the drug or medicine which caused injury or death, beyond the fact that the medicine or drug was prescribed by a physician. Of these cases 18 were fatal. The committee says:

"Under the head of 'All Patent Medicines' are grouped all those remedies which are recognized as patent medicines and which are advertised direct to the public for internal use. Competent authorities say that at least one-half of the medicines taken in the United States are of the kind known as 'patent medicine,' and yet in two years among 80,000,000 people there have been but ninety cases (forty-three fatal) that have been reported in the newspapers from the use or misuse of these remedies."

Not in a single fully substantiated case is it ever charged that any patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious. In this connection it should be understood that in making death certificates and in reporting cases of injury to the newspapers from which these cases were secured, a physician had the final word, and in this connection is there any probability that the doctor will hide his own carelessness or neglect or that of a fellow practitioner whose support he may want at some time, and is there even a possibility that he might hide any responsibility that could be thrown at a patent medicine? Ask yourself these questions. Then when you have found the answer, consider that during all this most thorough and careful investigation covering a period of two years, in not a single established case was it shown that patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious.

The most remarkable case reported was that of an Italian laborer in New York who suffered from pains in the chest. A physician ordered a porous plaster which the patient ate, with fatal results.

New Method of Cutting Steel.

A new method of cutting steel is said to have been patented by a Belgian engineer. The process consists in first heating the metal by means of an oxyhydrogen flame and then cutting it by a small stream of oxygen gas, which unites with the steel and forms a fusible oxide, which flows freely from the cut. It is said that the cut is fully as smooth as that made by the saw, and is only 1-100 inch wide.

NOTED FOR HIS PROFANITY.

Lord Thurlow, English Chancellor, Was Terrible Swearer.

Lord Thurlow, once lord high chancellor of England, was the most terrible swearer that ever lived, and he lived in an age when swearing was regarded as an elegant habit among the elite. He was Keeper of the Conscience of George III. He took to swearing as a lad does who wishes to show that he has arrived at man's estate. It was his ambition to be considered a swearer. With him everything was "damned good," "damned bad," "damned hot," "damned cold," etc. "Damned" was his epithet, his adjective and superlative, his argument, his judgment. To have deprived Thurlow of his "damned" would have been equivalent to shaving off his eyebrows or turning his growl into a whisper. Sir Hay Campbell, lord advocate, arguing a Scotch appeal to the bar in a very tedious manner, said: "I will noo, my lords, proceed to my sevenent pownt." "I'll be damned if you do!" cried Lord Thurlow, so as to be heard by all present; "this house is adjourned till Monday next," and off he scampered.
